

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system and method of providing financial services to children provides a child-friendly user-interface that includes an age-appropriate integrated financial services account statement having links to multimedia files providing information on or related to specific assets listed in the statement. The system and method of the invention may also be used as a convenient way of giving gifts to a child, and as a portal to a variety of child-related services and products.